THE MONTGOMERYSHIRE PEDIGREES,

FROM

THE "VISITATIONS OF WALES", BY LEWIS DWNN.

THE project, commenced in 1884, for printing these pedigrees for the use of the Members of the Powys-land Club is now carried out. The high authority of Lewis Dwnn's Visitations, and the extreme rarity and costliness of the work in which they were first printed by the Welsh Manuscript Society in 1846, rendered it desirable that the Montgomeryshire portion of such Visitations should be placed in the hands of the Members. This has been done, without extra cost, as part of the publications of the Club.

One hundred extra copies have been printed before the type was distributed, which are intended to be offered to Members of the Club in the first instance. Any not taken by them will be offered for sale to the public.

INTRODUCTION.

To aid the memory in cherishing and perpetuating the record of what is honourable and of good report in families, has been pronounced "the science of fools with long memories." If wisdom were always associated with a short or tarnished one, we might accept such a dictum; but, as this is not so, we may safely refer elsewhere for a more truthful definition of so well-abused and misrepresented a study as genealogy. The notion that Welsh genealogy is a pleasant fiction, invented to favour some personal or local conceit, or harmless peculiarity, is doubtless the property of fools; but one not generally accepted by the wise. Those who have interested themselves in the study of Welsh history, will affirm that the investigation of pedigree was the province of a specially-selected body of official persons, termed Arwyddveirdd, or Herald Bards, upon whom the State imposed the particular duty of registering arms and pedigrees. Theirs was neither a vain nor fanciful work, but one of practical and social utility.

The law, as it affected real property in Wales, doubtless gave rise to that predilection for pedigree generally attributed to Welshmen. This amiable weakness, however, was strongly infused with a considerable portion of practical common sense. There was something more solid than personal vanity which moved the acute but misrepresented genealogist. The law of the land was so constituted that the Welshman's pedigree was his title-deed, by which he claimed his birthright in the country. Everyone was obliged to show his descent through nine generations in order to be acknowledged a free native, and by which right he claimed his portion of land in the community. "A person passed the ninth descent, formed a new pen cenedyl, or head of a family. Every family was represented by its elders, and these elders from every family were delegated to the national council."¹ Hence the Welshman, rightly or wrongly, was led to look upon his pedigree as a charter of his national rights and personal estate; but, in addition, it stamped the possessor, no matter what might be the fortune or the misfortune of himself or of any particular generation of his ancestry, as a Gwr Boneddig, i.e., a gentleman with a bonedd, a pedigree.

"The origin of this system is buried in the depths of antiquity, for it was found to be in existence at the early part of the tenth century, when Howel the Good revised the laws of his country."

Out of deference to Saxon misconception, we omit the enumeration of the Herald Bards of what might be deemed a mythological era, and refer to some of these Arwyddveirdd, or keepers of genealogical records of more modern times. Among those who are in evidence, and of greater distinction at the close of the fourteenth century, was Llewelyn Ofeiriad, a descendant from Owen Brogyntyn, whose genealogical registers are still preserved at Jesus College, Oxford. The fifteenth and sixteenth century authorities,¹ whose works are still extant, continued the family records of descent for those times; but our attention is naturally arrested by three names of distinguished Powysians of the recording fraternity; of Rhys Cain, who lived to an old age, and wrote between the years 1560 and 1600; "Lodwic Lloyd, who was serjeant-at-arms to Queen Elizabeth", and wrote from 1586-1609; "Lewys Dwnn," the result of a small portion of whose labours is offered in its present form to the Members of the Powys-land Club.

We must not measure Lewys Dwnn by the standard of the ordinary genealogical amateur. His was a life-long professional experience. He tells us that he was one of the disciples of William Llyn, and had a copy of all his pedigrees and books; and prior to that had been a disciple of Hywel ap Sir Matthew, and that he possessed several of his collections. This shows not only his heraldic education, but that he lost no opportunity of adding to his genealogical authorities. His fellow-student was the highly esteemed Rhys Cain of Oswestry, who became possessed of William Llyn's books, and liberally allowed Lewys Dwnn to copy them.²

In 1585, Robert Cooke, Clarenceux, and William Flower, Norroy, Kings of Arms, turned their attention to Wales, and, on the recommendation of many gentlemen of local interest and genealogical acquirements, appointed Lewys Dwnn as their "Deputy Herald-at-Arms over the three Crowns of Wales and the Marches". Subsequently a second patent was granted, by Cooke and Somerset, on the 3rd of February, in the 28th of Elizabeth 1585, as follows:—

"TO ALL AND SINGULAR as well noble estates and gentlemen, as others to whome these p'tes shall come, Robert Cooke, Esquire al's Clarencieulx Kinge of Armes for the East, West and South partes of the realme of England from the ryuer of Trent southward, and Somerset, Mareſcall to Norroy Kinge of Armes of the East West and North partes of the realme of England from the same river northward, send Greeetinge. Whereas it hath pleased the Queenes most excellent Matie to authorize us, the said Clarencieulx and

In which said cōmissions all paynters, glasyers, goldsmythes, gravers, and all other artificers whatsoever he or they be, are expressly prohibited and forbidden to paynt, grave, glase, devise or settle forth by any wayes or meanes any manner of armes, creastes, cognoysances, pedigrees or other devises perteynenge to the office of Armes within either of the said provinces. And lykewyse that no person or persons should intro-mitte or meddle in any thinge or thinges touchinge and concerninge the office of Armes within either of the said provinces, otherwise or in any other forme or manner then they may lawfully doe, and shall be allowed, and specially therevnto licensed and autorized by us the said Clarencieulx and Norroy our deputie or deputies under the seales of our said offices first had and obtained. Know YE that we the said Clarencieulx and Somersett as Mareschall to Norroy, carefully myndinge the advancement of her Maties service, and the performance of all that our places and roome do crave to have done within our severall provinces and our charge ar moved to enclyne unto the request made unto us by sondry gentlemen of good credit well willers unto the cōntrey of Wales on behalfe of this bearer  LEWES AP RHIS AP OWEN al's DUN of Buttus in the cantred of Kedewen within the cōntie of Montgomerie, that on respecte of his former trayveyles thouroughowte the most part of the said cōntrey for the atteyninge unto the knowledge of the lynes pedigrees and descentes of the chieffest families and kindredes within that principallitie (the bookes and gatherings whereof we have seene) may the rather upon their comendac'on, and his paynfull dilig—— heretofore vsed together in regard of his skill in the Welshe or Britishe tongue be by us encouraged and allowed to contynew and goe forward in makinge his collections thoroughowt the said principallitie whereunto for the former respectes, and because that contrey by reason of the diversitie of the language hath not bene of late yeares by men of our place surveyed, nor the lynes and races of the gentlemen so observed as they ought, and as we greatly wishe they should be, to the benefite of that contrey, we do willingly condescent and agree and by these p'ntes do allow him the said Lewis ap Rhis to record, register, and make entrances of all the discents, mariages, funeralles, and obites of the knightes, esquires, and gentlemen inhabitinge within the said pricipalitie or the Dominions and Lordships marcher thereof: omittinge all high lynes deduced from farre aboue all memorie which for great part are found to be conjecturall, unlesse evidences, histories or matters of good crediet be showed for approbac'on thereof. Wherein he is to have special regard that such as shall uniuistly intrude thei'mselves into any family upon the bare coherency or lykelyhode of surname or armes, beinge otherwyse meere strangers therunto may be bewrayed and desceryd; and that Bastardes and their descendentes may be scow'r'd from the legitimates, takinge for witsesse and testimonie of the truth of his proceedinges the handes and subscriptions of the parties to his booke of entrances and with all addinge thervnto the yeere, dwellinge place, parishe, commot, cantred or Hundred and Shire, with the degree and misterie of theim so plainly, truly, and faithfully without partialitie, affection or flatterie that Tyme, which is the mother of truth, never discovers any falshode or fraude to his and their reproche and infamy. And wher he shall perceave variance and contention touchinge title of inheritance dependinge upon doubtfull descent or consanguinitie by no meanes to intermedle therin to the preiudice of any of the parties, vnlesse he be by either of them thervnto specially willed and requested, neythur yet rashely to take upon him to decyde such scruples and doubttes as may aryse betwene parties touchinge Armes, creastes or cognouysances but rather referre them to the hearinge of us the said Clarenciulx and Somersett or any one of us within whose province or charge the parties whome it concerneth ar resyant and abydinge. Of which his proceedinges in all and singular the premisses the said Lewis ap Ris once everie yeare is to acquaynt us the said Clarenciulx and Somersett or oftener yf need so require if by us he be thervnto willed and appoynted that so we may discerne of his doenges as well as to record and register in our offices all that we shall fynd rightly and truly done as to rectifie and reforme those thinges that we shall perceve wrōe and mistaken. In witsesse whereof, We the said Clarenciulx and Somersett for Norroy have hereunto subscribed our names and sette the seales of our several offices, the third day of February Anno Dni 1585, in the XXVIIIth yere of the reigne of our most gracious Sou'ergne Lady Queen Elizabeth."

The high qualifications which recommended him to the College of Arms in 1586 seem by the following entry in one of his manuscripts to have been appreciated at a much later date: "Finished by Lewys Dwnn deput herault at armes over all Walles unless Clarenceux and Noroy Kinge at armes Ano Regine Elizabeth 39, 1597." The work of Lewys Dwnn under such high sanction and authority, with the reputation for accuracy his Visitations possess generally throughout the principality, induced the Welsh Manuscript Society to give them the preference for publication to the pedigrees of Jevan Brechva, now in the possession of Lord Harlech at Brogynton, or to the still more ancient collection of Llewelyn Ofeiriad at Oxford.

One of the most laborious and conscientious genealogists of our time, who had unusual access to authoritative sources, the late

Mr. Joseph Morris of Shrewsbury, whose valuable genealogical series, of some twenty huge folios, relating to Shropshire and border families remains still in MS., speaking of Dwnn's South Wales collection says:—"I have had several opportunities of testing Lewys Dwnn's pedigrees by deeds and other authentic records, and have always found them singularly correct, notwithstanding the apparent barbarism of his spelling." Mr. Morris's testimony is confirmed in numerous instances by the more recent discovery of records which might never have seen the light, nor been appreciated when found, but for the stimulus to research and the educated facility given to such pursuit by the association and laudable emulation of Powys-land Club membership.

One of Dwnn's MSS.¹ has the following title and introduction :

"THE BOOK OF LEWIS DOONN,

The above title and introduction are given to his Heraldic Visitations of Carmarthen, Pembroke, and Cardigan. Dwnn's original MS. of his Visitation of Montgomeryshire, although there is evidence of its former existence, is lost. No energies have been wanting to ascertain what has become of it. Still, there is no reason to despair, in the face of many fortunate finds, that its whereabouts may yet be ascertained. With the view of assisting its discovery, the following account, given by Sir Samuel Rush Meyrick in his editorial introduction to the Visitations, dated 1846, may be acceptable.

"All I have as yet been able to present to the public is here before it. Mr. Lloyd Mostyn informs me that the collection of manuscripts, formerly at Gloddaith, are at Mostyn, in the boxes in which they were packed for removal, these never have been opened. In the mean time, to supply as far as possible the deficiency, my friend, Sir Thomas Phillipps, of Middle Hill, Worcestershire, has most kindly given me a transcript of the Montgomeryshire pedigrees, from a manuscript he purchased at Lord Berwick's sale, written by John Rhydderch, a poet and grammarian, and household bard in the Bulkeley family in Anglesey. He also printed, under the name of 'John Roderick', in Shrewsbury, in the year 1716, A Display of Heraldry, written by John Davies of Rhiwlas, in the parish of Llansilin, co. Denbigh, gentleman."

There is encouragement in the following remarks of Mr. Joseph Morris:

"I find from various MSS. and private documents that have come under my observation that Lewys Dwnn's Visitations extended from about 1580 to 1614, and the Counties of Montgomery, Flint, and Denbigh are included in one volume, called by Lewys Dwnn himself, Llyfr Coch o Bowys (The Red Book of Powys)."

In another letter to Sir Samuel Rush Meyrick he says:

"I have myself some right documents which enable me to state, that in the original visitation book of Lewys Dwnn the following families, in addition to those included in this work, had their pedigrees entered by Lewys Dwnn in his Visitations of Montgomeryshire.

"Bowen of Trefeglwys; of Trallwng Coch (1595); Davies of Coedyberen; Derwas of Sarne, etc.; Evans of Ceri; of Penegos; of Montgomery (1591); Griffith of Brongain; Hughes of Llanfyllin (1586); James of Weeg; Jones of Arwystle (1586); of Llanfair; Kerry of Llanfyllin (1586); Lloyd of Trefnant; of Dolobran; of Domgay; of Gwernyrho (1586); Maurice of Trevedryd; of Llan-saintffraid; of Montgomery (1592); of Caersws (1586); Morgan of Newtown; of Fronfraith; Morris of Ucheldre in Bettus; Oliver of Neuddwen; Owen of Machynlleth; of Llanillo (1595-1603); Price of Llanfyllin (1586); Pierce of Keri; Powell of Llanidloes (1586); Thomas of Ystymcollwyn; Thomas of Aston in Lydham (1610); Vaughan of the Glyn; of Melyniog Fawr in Llansantffraid; Williams of Llwynrhyddod in Llangurig; Williams of Dolanog; and many other families, who adhering to the ancient Welsh custom, had not, at that period, adopted a fixed surname."

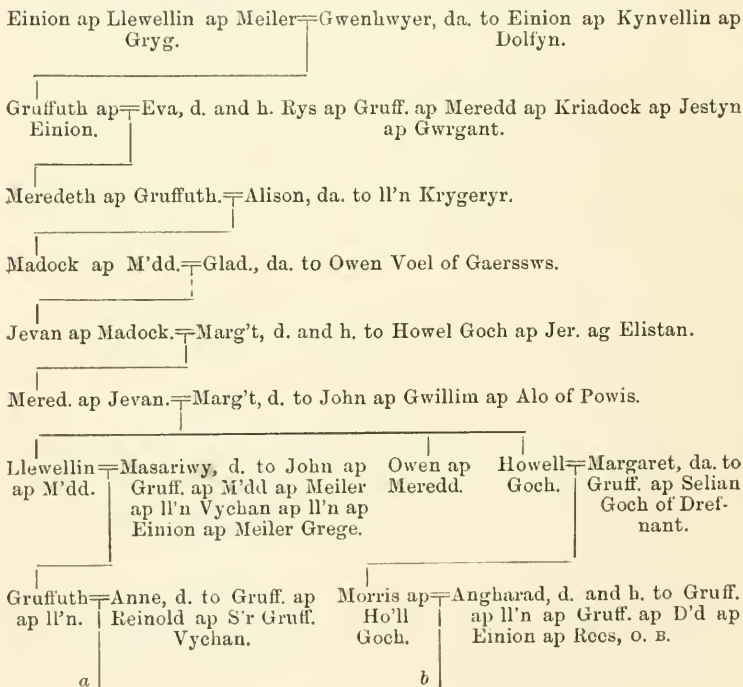

It is therefore much to be regretted that John Rhydderch, who in 1711-12 had an opportunity of transcribing the whole of Lewys Dwnn's Visitations of Montgomeryshire, not only unwisely exercised his power of selection, but, what is equally to be regretted, not only took the liberty of translating the language into English, and in so doing modernizing the spelling of Welsh names, but also of making veracious though unauthorised additions. Fortunately, Mr. Joseph Morris was entrusted with the revision and correction of what is now before the public, and with the addition thereto of many interesting notes.

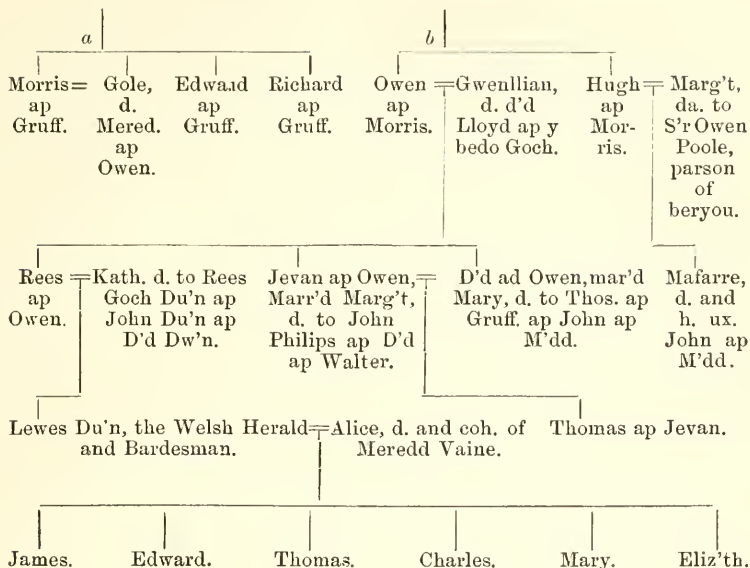

Having so far dealt with the office, it now remains to say something of the individual, whose labours in genealogical research are now offered in a compact issue to the Members of the Powys-land Club.

It may have been remarked that the Herald's Patent is addressed to Lewys ap Rhys ap Owen al's Dun—a designation which correctly apprises us that this surname was not that of his, but of his mother's, family, she being the sixth daughter, not the heiress, of Captain Rhys Gôch Dwun of Cefn y Gwestyd, Montgomeryshire. Lewys Dwun's father was, as will be seen below, Rhys ap Owen, and it was the sole issue of his marriage with Captain Dwun's daughter, "Lewis Dwne of Welshe Poole" and Bettws, our Powysian Herald, who first adopted Dwun as a surname.

His maternal ancestor, David Dwun, a scion of the house of Kidwelly, on receiving the appointment of seneschall to Sir Edward de Charlton, Baron of Powys, was the first of his family who settled in Montgomeryshire; and who, by his marriage with Angharad, daughter and co-heir of Dakws Lloyd, became possessed of the Gwestyd. Captain Dwun was the great-great-grandson of this David, whose pedigree is given in the Introduction to the Visitations, p. xxvi. The pedigree of the paternal line of our Herald, divested of some of its collateral branches, which are also there given, is to be seen in the Harleian MS. No. 1973, folios 40, 41, in the Library of the British Museum, and is as follows:—

LEWIS DWNE OF WELSHE POOLE.

With such results of life-long labour in the possession of posterity it is a matter of regret, to those claiming Dwun as a countryman, and whose name is a household word in Powysland, that so little is known of him personally. "All attempts", says Sir E. R. Meyrick, "and they have been numerous, to ascertain any particulars of the private life of our Author have proved abortive; and, although I have been most readily assisted in this matter by the zealous co-operation of the Earl of Powys, my friends W. W. E. Wynne of Peniarth, Esq., and the enlightened Welsh scholar, the Rev. Walter Davies, I have not succeeded in ascertaining even the period of his death. These indefatigable coadjutors have diligently searched registers, manor rolls, etc., without any satisfactory result, therefore it can only be conjectured that he died in the reign of James I."¹

That his eldest son, James, had his father's papers, and inherited some of his tastes, we gather from the following endorsement of the pedigree of "Jones of Llwyn Ririd, Forden", in the possession of Captain Herbert Owen Johnes of the Lower Garthmyl family:

"This Rolle made by Lewys Dwun, being Deputy Herald under Clarencieux and Norroys, was collected of ould Bookes and Records, which Records are in the keeping of James Dwun, son of the said Lewys Dwun, which Bookes make good this Rolle verbatim.

Lewys Dwnn's paternal arms were those ascribed to Brochwel, Prince of Powys, viz.: Sable, three nags' heads erased, argent; and if the ladies are correctly described as heiresses in his pedigree, he would be entitled to quarter the arms ascribed to Jestyn ap Gwrgant, viz.: Gules, three chevrons, argent, and those of Elystan Glodrydd, and perhaps others.

² The Heightley estate, which is in the parish of Chirbury and county of Salop, close to the border of Montgomeryshire, was sold by Robert Newton, the last of his family who possessed it. The estate then became the property of Robert Lord Clive, great grandfather of the present Earl of Powis, who is now the owner thereof.

Book of Pedigrees referred to in page 238, in the possession of the Printer of that edition, from which the following is extracted concerning the Cradock family, and which will serve to supply some particulars omitted above :—" John Cradock of Newton, & Margaret Moethe, his wife, had issue—Richard Cradock al^x Newton, Esq. married Emmota, da. & heir of John Harvey of London. Sir John Newton, Knight, son of Richard Cradock alias Newton & of the said Emmota, mard. Isabell, da. of Thomas Cheder; & had issue. Thomas Newton, Esq. mard. Cobham & Knight of the Garter, 1600, son of Wm. Brook, Lo. Cobham, & of the said Frances Newton." It will be readily perceived that this extract differs in some of the marriages, particularly in that of Thomas Newton, which in the text is unintelligible, and is given verbatim as in John Ryvderch's original MS.

² Sir Gruffydd Vychan, Knight, was descended from Brochwel Ysgythrog, Prince of Powys. According to the accounts of genealogists, "Sir Gruffydd Vychan of Powys" was created Knight Banneret at the battle of Agincourt. He probably commanded the quota sent from his own district in the general levy from Wales; and as he received the honour of Knighthood in the company of Sir David Gam and his brave relatives, Sir Roger Vaughan and Sir Watkin Lloyd, who died on the field of battle, it may be presumed that Sir Gruffydd Vychan shared with them in the exploit of rescuing their Sovereign from a very perilous situation. In the case of Sir Gruffydd Vychan, and also of others who obtained distinction at Agincourt, we observe their families, in no length of time, rising to consideration and importance in their respective neighbourhoods. Sir Gruffydd Vychan, soon after that event, was called Lord of Burgedin, Treflydan, Garth, and Gaerfawr, though he had commenced his career as second son of Gruffydd ab Ieuan ap Madoc Gwenwys, a petty chieftain in Guilsfield; and his descendants continued, for many years after his decease, persons of consequence and influence in the country. About the latter end of 1417, two years after the battle of Agincourt, we find Sir Gruffydd Vychan, and his elder brother, Ieuan, in an employment which redounded little to their credit, though probably they acted on the occasion in obedience to the command of their paramount Lord, Henry V having given up Sir John Oldcastle, his old companion and faithful soldier, to the rigour of the law which had then been lately passed against the Lollards, he was at this time taken in Powys Land, under the direction of Edward Charlton, the last Lord Powys of that name, and conducted to London by Sir John Grey, his son-in-law. From documents at present in the possession of their descendants, through heirs female, namely, the family of Mytton of Garth, in Guilsfield, it appears that the active agents in arresting Sir John Oldcastle were the two brothers, Ieuan and Sir Gruffydd Vychan; and, from the privileges specifically granted them on account thereof, that it was considered a service of danger. Sir Gruffydd Vychan, there is sufficient authority for stating, was eventually taken off himself in a violent manner. From an Elegy, written to his memory by Davydd Llwyd ap Llewelyn of Mathavarn, we collect that, having refused to obey a summons of Henry Grey, Lord of Powys, to perform some feudal service, he was by him put to death by decapitation; and, as is intimated by the "Cywydd", by violating a safe conduct granted to him. Sir Gruffydd Vychan must at this time have been far advanced in years; for, at the period of the battle of Agincourt, Henry Grey was not born. Sir Gruffydd Vychan had issue David, Reynold, and Cadwaladr; Catherine, wife of Edward Bewpy; Gwenhwyvar, wife of Gruffydd ap Aaron ap Ednyfed; Anne, wife of Ieuan Vychan of Penllyn; and Margaret, wife of Morys Ludlow, and afterwards married to an English Knight.

³ Madoc Gwenwys married Arddun, daughter of Rhys ap Sir Aaron ap Bledri, Knight of the Sepulchre, and had issue Ieuan, Gruffydd, John, Rhys, and Margaret, wife of Adda Ddu of Ceri.

DAVID Lloyd ap Rob't, the 2d Brother, married Mallt, vrch. John ap Meredith ap Rees: their Children were Oliver Lloyd; Ales, wife of John Jones; Elizabeth; Jane; and Mary.

Maurice Lloyd, another son of Robert, went to Bristol.

Rowl'd Lloyd, another son of Robert, married Jane, vrch. W'm ap Reynold, and their daughter was Catherine. Afterwards he married Elizabeth, vrch. Griffith Nanney, Esqr., and their Children were Rob't, John, Humphrey, Jane, and Marg't.

¹ John Arneway, whose daughter, Joyce, married Austin ap Rees, was, though of a Shropshire family, of Tregynon, in the county of Montgomery, where he probably resided as a lessee or manager under the Blayney family, the heads of which were at this period holding military commands in the armies of Queen Elizabeth, and obtained large grants in Ireland, where they are now represented by the present Lord Blayney. Margaret Arneway, sister of John Arneway of Tregynon, married Owen ap Morris (or Maurice, ap Howell ap Evan ap Griffith Lloyd, page 282, Welsh MSS. Society Edition of these Pedigrees) of Caer Sws, in Montgomeryshire; and when the Arneways returned into Shropshire, the descendants of Owen ap Morris and Margaret migrated with them. The celebrated Royalist, John Arneway, D.D., Archdeacon of Salop, in the Diocese of Lichfield and Coventry, Prebend of Wolvey, in the same Diocese, Rector of Hodnet, etc., was a grandson of John Arneway of Tregynon. Dr. Arneway was among the Royalists taken prisoner by the forces of Colonel Mytton, in the capture of Shrewsbury, on the 22nd of February 1644-5. While subsequently an exile for his loyalty, he wrote "The Tablet, or Moderation of Charles the First, Martyr", 12mo., printed after his death, in 1661. See "Walker's Sufferings of the Clergy." After suffering imprisonment, and being driven an exile to the Hague, he was, by necessity, forced thence to Virginia, where he died (before the Restoration of Royalty) in 1653.

THE RED CASTLE, IN POWYS.

² By his marriage with the daughter of Milo Fitz-Walter, Earl of Hereford, he became possessed of the Forest of Dean. He married a second wife, Mawd, by whom he had issue, Matthew.

⁴ Reynold was second son to Peter Herbert; but at the death of his elder brother, Herbert, in 1248, he succeeded to the family estates.

³ For the matches of this Richard Herbert, and his descendants, see the preceding pedigree.

⁷ He was father of seven sons and three daughters. See a future page.

² This should be Gwaethvoed, Lord of Powys. Gwaethvoed, Lord of Cardigan, was contemporary with Bleddyn ap Cynvyn, the great grandson of Gwaethvoed, Lord of Powys. See Mr. Robert Vaughan's British Antiquities Revived.

His daughter and heiress, Sarah Lloyd, married the Rev. Thomas Youde of Galchog, and had issue a daughter, Harriet, who married J. W. Hinde, Esq., father of the Chevalier Lloyd of Clochfaen, K.S.G., the present representative of the Lloyds of Clochfaen and Plas Madock. The ancient mansion of Clochfaen, which was situated about a mile from Llangurig, was pulled down about fifty years ago to mend the roads, and to build bridges and farm houses; its walls were of immense thickness.

MOUNTGOMERY, NEUADD DDU.

THE Generation and Descendants of Edward Herbert, Esqr., of the Body of Queen Elizabeth, Captain General over 500 men at S't Quinten, Enchir, and Cornwal, Lord of Cherbury, etc., 1586.

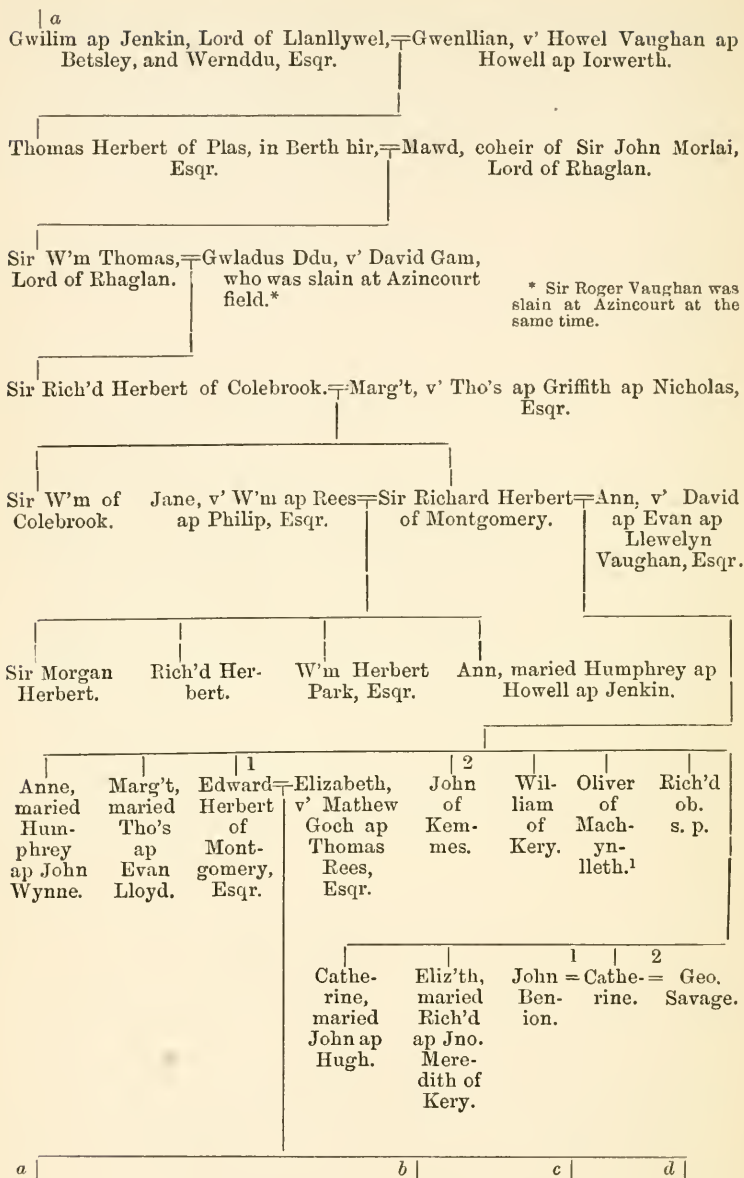

Edw'd Herbert, Esqr., one of the justices of the Quorum for Mountgomeryshire, High Steward and Constable of Mountgomery Castle, son and heir to S'r Rich'd Herbert of Mountgomery, K't of the war, and High Stuart under the King over the 5 Hundreds in Mountgomeryshire, viz., Sychdir, Kery, Kedewain, Arwystli, and Cyveiliock; who was 2'd son to S'r Rich'd Herbert of Colbrooke, K't of War and of the Coronation, who was 2'd son to S'r William Thomas, K't and L'd of Rhaglan, son and heir to Thomas Herbert, Esqr., son to Gwilim ap Jenkin, L'd of Wern; which Jenkin was son and heir to Adam Herbert, L'd of Llanllywel and Betslei, son to Peter Herbert, Esqr., son to Herbert, son to Herbert Fitzroy, son to Henry the first, King of England. The 1st Barons of Cornwall went to Glamorgan in the time of King John, anno Domini 1199.

Peter Herbert, Esqr., = Ales, vrch. and heir to Blethyn Broadspear, L'd of Llanllywel and Betsle.

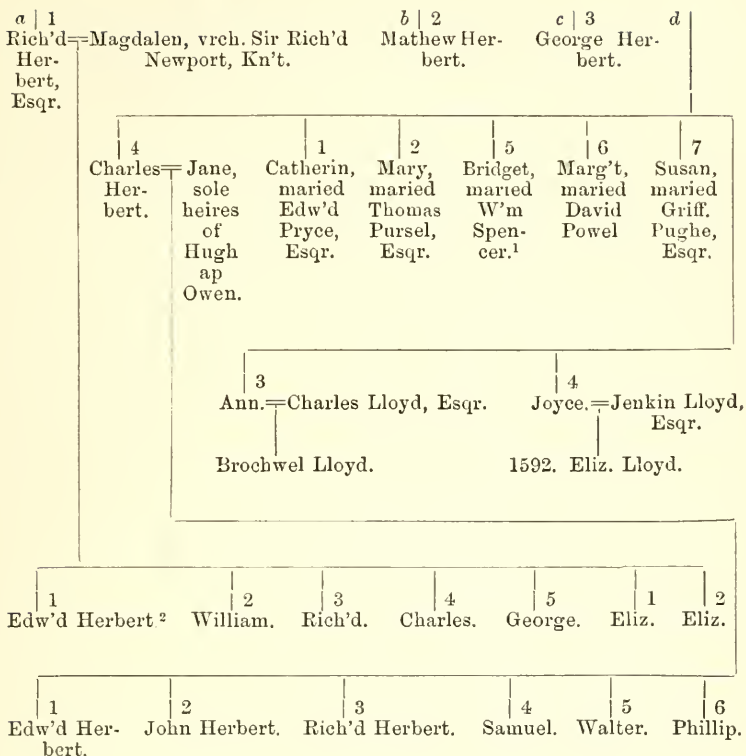

Reynold Herbert, L'd of Llanllywel and Betsley, Esqr., = Margaret, the daughter of Sir John Wells, K't.

Adam Herbert, L'd of Llanllywel and Betsley, Esqr., = Christian, coheir of Waring Ddu, L'd of Gwern Ddu.

Jenkin Herbert, Lord of Llanllywel and Betsley, Esqr., = Gwenllian, v' Sir Aaron ap Bledri.

² Meredydd ap Bleddyn succeeded his father in the Sovereignty of Powys. He died in 1133.

⁵ Gruffydd ap Meredith married Gwervyl, daughter of Gwrgeney ap Howel, by whom he had an only son, the celebrated Owen Cyveilioc, who succeeded to the other moiety of Powys. From him are descended several of the leading families of North Wales.

P. 321

LLAN WDDYN AND EUNANT.

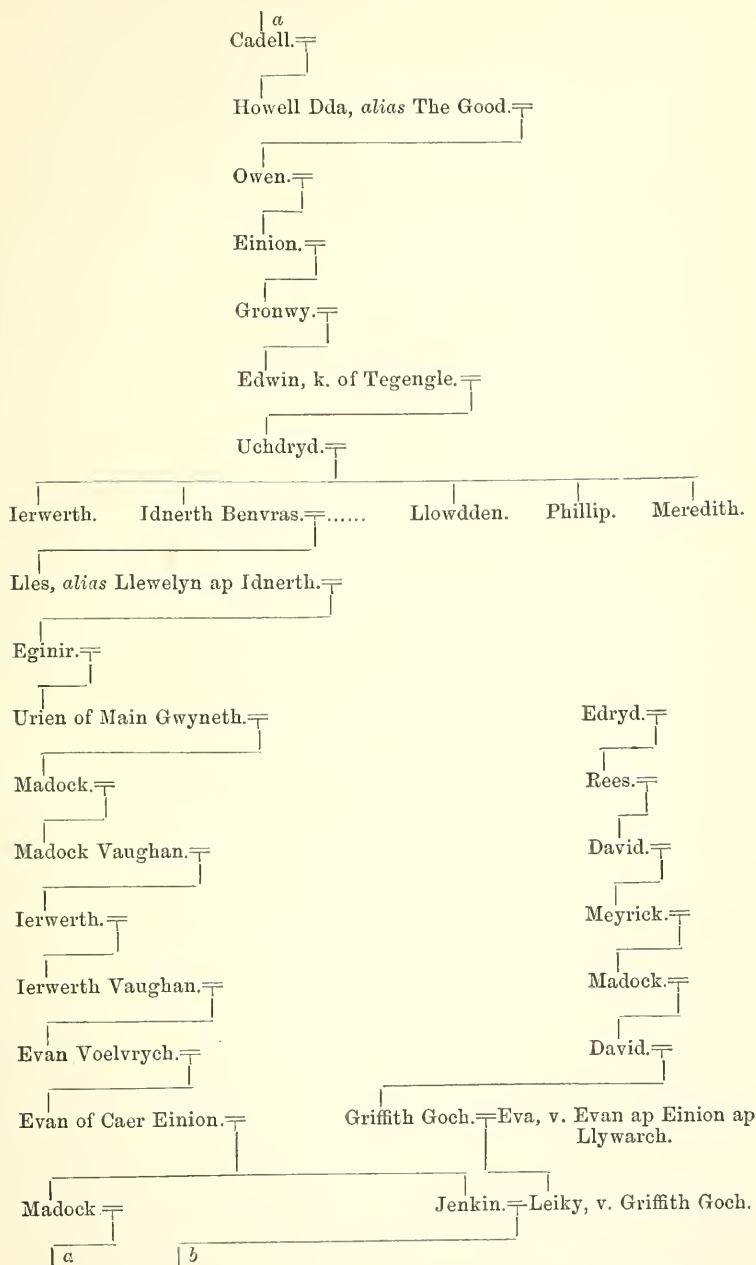

¹ According to other authorities, Owain was son of Madoc, by his consort, Susanna. At the decease of Madoc, his dominions in Wales were apportioned amongst his children, and Owain Brogynton had the whole of Edeyrnion and Dinmael. Edeyrnion was afterwards divided between Iorwerth and Gruffydd, sons of Owain, the former ancestor of the Hughes's of Gwerclas, Barons of Kymmer yn Edeyrnion, and the latter of the Barons of Crogen and Branas, and the Barons of Hendwr; Dinmael fell to their brother Bleddyn, ancestor to the Lords of Rug, the Maesmors of Maesmor, &c. Edeyrnion was divided among the descendants of Owain into thirteen Baronies, over which they exercised Baronial Rights which were confirmed to them by Edward I. Owain also inherited from his father the Royal Arms of Powys, Argent, a Lion Rampant sable, "the Black Lion of Powys," which have been transmitted to his descendants.

STOKE.¹

² This should be Gwaethvoed Vawr of Powys; as Gwaethvoed, Lord of Cardigan, was contemporary with Bleddyn ap Cynvyn, three generations later.

³ She was Sovereign of Powys; and had been previously married to Llewelyn ap Seisyllt, Prince of Wales, who was assassinated in 1020.

⁵ For his descendants by his second wife, Heynyth, see p. 133.

² He resided also at Cae Hywel and at Kynaston, from the latter of which places the family derived their surname. He was living in 1313, when he witnessed a grant of lands near Oswestry, from Hugh Fitz Philip to Haghmond Abbey.

² George Kynaston, of Oteley and Stocks, Esq., died in 1543.

³ Sir Edward Kynaston, knight, was Sheriff for the county of Salop in 1599. He died in 1641.

⁴ Sir Francis Kynaston, knight. He was an Esquire of the body to Charles I, and was celebrated as a scholar and poet. He died in 1652.

"Courteous Reader. I desire your excuse for what faults and errors hath passed herein, the reason thereof must be wholly attributed to the former blind scrolling and erroneous Manuscript. J. R." John Rhydderch's errors consisted chiefly in misplacing the collateral branches in various tabular pedigrees, which "faults" have however been corrected and collated by other authentic authorities in the possession of Mr. Joseph Morris of Shrewsbury, and of Mr. William Rees of Llandovery, by whom the tabular pedigrees have been re-arranged as now printed. At page 91 of his MS. John Rhydderch gives the following account of Welsh Heralds and Historians.

"Lewis Dwnn, Poet, who hath written the Original Book of these Pedegrees, who was formerly Howell ap Sir Mathewe's Disciple, and since a Disciple to Owen Gwynedd and Wm. Llyn, and had a great many of their Bookes. And then he had a Commission over all Wales granted him per Clarenceux Robt. Cox alias Clarenceux Roe de Arms, and Richard Glover, alias Somerset, Marsial to Norey King of Armes. He had that Commission granted him over all Wales, to keep, and preserve the Pedegrees of the Ancient Brittaines, and to give them their Right Claim and Title of Arms, and so he travelled over all the Marches of Wales. And the Cheif of the Nobility and Gentry had shewed him their Ancient Records, their writings and Charters, and he write a copy of all those Writtings, Charters, and Records, and I have incerted the day and the year when they were first written per Lewys Dwnn, and the year of Queen Elizabeth's Reign. And he mentions yt. there was then a copy of all his industrious Travels, with Mr. Broughton, one of the Concell of the Marches, and one with George Owen, Esqr., and with Mr. Richard Glover, alias Somerset, in London, and he had of their Books in return of his.

"Besides, he saith yt. all the Nobility and Gentry hath set their hands to their Pedegrees when he writt'em first, yt. it might plainly appear yt. there was nothing add nor diminish therein.

"He hath taken likewise great care to preserve the Ancient British Tongue, and the most famous works of the Poets. And he is sure yt. no one before him never had such warrants for Pedegrees and Coat of Armes, nor such worthy attestations to his Books per several of the Gentry, and he testifies further whether they are truth or untruth, yt. they must be beliv'd unavoidably, per reason of the numerous authorities and attestations he had of the same.

"There is within this Book the Pedegrees of King James the 1st. and Queen Elisabeth, according as they were in print, to Adam. Here is likewise the Pedegrees of some of the Nobility and Gentry of the Ancient Brittaines to Adam, the first man yt. God created, originally written per Lewis Dwnn, Deputy Herald at Arms, in the 28th year of Queen Elizabeth's Reign, of Blessed Memory, and in the year of our Lord Anno Domini, 1516."

It has been deemed advisable to omit the Pedegrees of James 1st and Queen Elisabeth, as they have already frequently appeared in print elsewhere. Three or four other Pedegrees contained in Rhydderch's MS. have also been omitted here, as not having any connection with the Principality. Mr. Joseph Morris is of opinion that the preceding Pedigrees of Montgomeryshire, as well as those of Radnorshire, Denbighshire, and Flintshire, do not comprise the whole of the pedigrees taken by Lewys Dwnn in his Visitations of those Counties. He mentions, in a letter to Sir S. R. Meyrick, the original Editor, "I have myself seen Documents which enable me to state, that in the original Visitation Book of Lewys Dwnn, the following families, in addition to those included in this Work, had their pedigrees entered by Lewys Dwnn in his Visitations of Montgomeryshire:—Bowen, of Trefeglwys; Bowen, of Trallwng-coch, (1595); Davies, of Coedyberen; Derwas, of Sarne, &c.; Evans, of Ceri; Evans, of Penegos, (1599); Evans, of Montgomery (1591); Griffith, of Brongain; Hughes, of Llanfyllin, (1586); James, of Weeg; Jones, of Arwystli, (1586); Jones, of Llanfair; Kery, of Llanfyllin, (1586); Lloyd, of Trefnant; Lloyd of Dolobran; Lloyd, of Domgay; Lloyd, of Gwernnygo, (1586); Maurice, of Trevedryd; Maurice, of Llansaintffraid; Morris, of Montgomery, (1592); Morris, of Caer Sws, (1586); Morgan, of Newtown, (1597); Morgan, of Fronfraith; Morris, of Ucheldre, in Bettws; Oliver, of Nenaddwen; Owen of Machynlleth, and Lluullo, (1594 and 1603); Price, of Llanfyllin, (1586); Pierce, of Ceri; Powell, of Llanidloes, (1586); Thomas, of Ystymcollwyn; Thomas, of Aston, in Lydham, (1610); Vaughan of the Glyn; Vaughan of Melyniog Fawr, in Llansaintffraid; Williams, of Llwynrhyddod, in Llangurig; and Williams, of Dolanog.
